This closing panel brings together a diverse group of sector perspectives to reflect on the key themes emerging from the conference and explore what they mean in practice. The session will be visually facilitated, capturing ideas and insights in real time to support shared understanding and engagement. Grounded in audience perspectives and real-world experience, the discussion will focus on why reducing agricultural emissions matters, what action is already underway, and where the greatest opportunities lie ahead. Designed to move beyond discussion, the session will challenge participants to consider their role in shaping New Zealand's low-emissions future, while the visual facilitation helps make connections, surface key messages, and leave a lasting record of the conversation. Facilitated by Scott Champion with panellists George Moss Tokoroa Pastoral LTD, Tracy Brown Director, Jessie Chan Director, Mat Hocken Grassmere Dairy, Charles Taituha Beef + Lamb NZ
